

GREEN ROOF AND GROWING!

A green roof is a roof that is covered with plants. Just like a garden in the sky. It insulates a building (Keeping it warm in winter and cold in summer), It makes the air cleaner, and it's great for wildlife!

GROW GREENS FOR YOUR ROOF GARDEN!

Some people even use their roofs to grow food. What would you grow on a green roof garden?

Lots of plants can be regrown from food scraps. Lettuces and cabbages work really well but you can regrow all sorts of things. Here's how:

Get the base of a lettuce or cabbage and place it in a container with a little bit of water. Don't submerge it completely, just a centimetre or two of water will do.

Keep the container in a warm sunny place and keep the water topped up. After a few days, new leaves should start to grow!

Don't forget to show off your green fingers on our gallery!!